

THE UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT EL PASO

Undergraduate Merit Scholarship Opportunity

Application Deadline
January 12, 2018
For fellowships starting fall 2018

Contact:

buildingscholars@utep.edu

HOW TO APPLY

Visit buildingscholars.utep.edu for more information and to apply online.

DIVERSITY PROGRAM CONSORTIUM

Supported by the National Institutes of Health

ABOUT

A research-intensive training program for students interested in biomedical, social, behavioral and health sciences and biomedical engineering. Areas of emphasis include:

- Addiction
- Cancer
- Infectious Diseases
- Health Disparities
- Environmental Health
- Translational Biomedicine
- Neurodegenerative and Chronic Diseases

BENEFITS

- Learn research principles
- Participate in scientific discovery
- Be mentored by practicing professionals
- Prepare for graduate studies and research careers in biomedical sciences and engineering

RECEIVE

- FREE tuition for up to four years, pending satisfactory progress and federal funding
- Monthly stipend of over $700/month (Freshman/Sophomore)
- Monthly stipend of over $1,000/month (Junior/Senior)

PARTICIPATE

- Cutting-edge research
- Workshops/tutorials on professional development and leadership
- Summer research at top research institutions
- Colloquia by top scientists, engineers and clinicians

ELIGIBILITY

- Rising freshman, sophomore or junior
- U.S. citizenship/permanent residency
- Women and minorities encouraged to apply
- See website for a complete list of approved majors

